

Found Guilty on Charge of Sodomy

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Pasquale A. Massi, 64, of Cherry Hill, N.J., was found guilty Thursday by a federal court jury of conspiracy to commit sodomy and bribery of a national park ranger.

U. S. Dist. Judge John E. Miller had previously dismissed a charge of sodomy, one of three counts in the indictment returned against Massi.

Miller said he would not pass sentence on Massi until a ruling on a motion, submitted by Massi's attorneys, had been delivered. Miller gave the attorneys 10 days to file the motion for a new trial. Miller permitted Massi to remain free under $5,000 bond.

The jury, which was composed of 10 men and two women, deliberated less than two hours before returning the decision.

Massi was charged with conspiring with Stephen Taylor Jr., 16, of Hot Springs, to commit sodomy the night of June 11, 1967 in Hot Springs National Park and offering ranger David Essex a $200 bribe.

Massi said he was too "ill to remember anything" that happened June 11.

"I am afraid of dying at any minute," Massi testified.

several Vietnamese motoring to me," Roha said. "I thought they were our militia wanting to give up. I said 'no, no' and ran right on by them. They were NVA (North Vietnamese army, I guess I stunned them as much as they stunned me. About 15 yards farther on an NVA jumped and pushed a pistol into my stomach."

Neither man had boots on and in a few hours their feet were bleeding as they followed a trail into the mountains. They were given sandals, fresh trousers and shirts. When they stumbled their captors helped them to their feet. The next day, the men were in a company-size base camp, in a bomb shelter in which they could stand nearly erect.

Each day they would emerge through the shelter opening in the floor of a thatched hut and sit on a crude bench. Soldiers and several women in the camp would come to look at them. Occasionally, the soldiers would show them snapshots of their families.

At no time were the Marines roughly handled, they said. They were given three meals each day—rice, fish, a tin of herring, tea and plenty of drinking water.

A medical officer gave them vitamins. An officer who spoke poor English tried to interrogate them once, but they said they only gave their names, ranks and serial numbers.

From their rough knowledge of the Vietnamese language, it seemed that they would be moved as soon as their feet healed so Roha, although much improved, kept limping extravagantly.

The Marines noted that the camp often appeared empty except for their two guards. After each noon meal, one guard would return their bowls and cups to the kitchen, warning the other guard to keep awake. But the Marines said the remaining guard would climb into his hammock for a siesta.

Last Sunday, Nelson popped up through the hole in the floor and tiptoed past the dozing guard.

Roha followed and was next to the hammock when the guard opened his eyes for a second, then dozed off again.

"My heart stopped beating, said Roha," I almost stumbled from being so scared."

Suggests WR Be Strong for Drink Bill

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—House Speaker Sterling R. Cockrill Jr. told Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller Thursday that if he wanted a mixed drink bill in his call for a special session then he should "come out and be the strong man the people of Arkansas" think he is and include it in the call.

Cockrill inferred that there was distrust between the governor and the legislature because of a gambling bill which passed the legislature last year but was vetoed by Rockefeller. Some lawmakers said last year that the governor had assured them that if the bill legalizing gambling in Garland County passed he would sign it.

Cockrill said Thursday that Rockefeller should include the mixed drink bill in his call if he is convinced that it will benefit the state. Rockefeller has said he does not want to include the bill in the call unless he had been assured it would pass.

Cockrill made the remarks at a Little Rock dinner meeting in which the governor met with the Central Arkansas legislators to discuss matters that might come before a special session scheduled to begin Feb. 5.

Rep. Paul Moore of Little Rock said he was disappointed that emphasis was being placed on including the mixed drink bill in the call "when other important issues are going down the drain."

Moore said he was particularly thinking about the proposed merger of Little Rock University and the University of Arkansas.

Rockefeller said he would not have brought the mixed drink bill up if the need for additional revenues had not been urgent.

Communist troops and demolition squads slipped into the An Khe and Holloway airfields 50 miles apart in the central highlands before dawn under the cover of mortar fire.

At An Khe they damaged at least one $2.5 million C130 cargo plane, an Army helicopter, two fire trucks and a jeep. Two U.S. and 13 Communist troops were killed and 11 U.S. troops wounded in exchanges of fire.

Only light damage was reported at Holloway, an airstrip used by Army helicopters and light planes. Twenty Americans were wounded, but enemy casualties were not known.

Jehovah Witnesses to Meet Here

Eugene Shuster, local president of the Hope congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, said today that plans are proceeding according to schedule for the forthcoming circuit convention that will convene here March 1 through 3 at the Fair Park Coliseum.

"Our primary interest in gathering at these assemblies twice a year is advanced Bible instruction and learning improved methods of preaching," said Shuster. "We are seriously concerned with our Christian responsibility to share with others the good things of God's word and we find these study sessions to be a great aid in maintaining unity in our work here in Arkansas Circuit No. 2."

All age groups will benefit from the talks, dramatizations and discussions that will be sponsored by ministers from the southwest Arkansas area.

The highlight of the meeting will be the public talk, "Why Does God Permit Wickedness?" March 3. This will be handled by the district supervisor, C. A. Stoermer. He will also act as chairman for the entire assembly.

Shuster said that much advanced work and planning is required to accommodate the large crowd expected. Advance hotel and motel reservations are already being made and private home facilities will be sought if motel space is inadequate. 650 delegates are expected at the peak attendance.

The public is cordially invited to attend all sessions.

In the northern 1st Corps Area, enemy gunners lobbed 50 mortar rounds onto an artillery unit at Phu Bai, headquarters of the U.S. 3rd Marine Division. abroad. The President has no control of congressional touring. Rep. Frank M. Clark, D-Pa., chairman of the subcommittee, said before the group left Washington Wednesday that the conference is valuable as a forum for "new ideas, new ways of building highways, new ideas in transportation."

Items on the agenda include "Operations of the Delaware River and Bay Authority," "Low Cost Road Construction in Thailand," and "Beef Roads in Queensland."

Two of the six days are set aside for an open house and scenic tours during this Australian summer.

The subcommittee also will inspect Army engineer projects in Vietnam and a high-speed rail line in Japan. The engineers and rapid transit are subjects of committee responsibility.

The itinerary released by the subcommittee included three days in Tahiti, two in Hong Kong and one in Singapore. Clark said the Tahiti stop would be cut to one day and the Singapore layover eliminated.

Joining Clark on the entire trip are Reps. Don H. Clausen, R-Calif., and William C. Cramer, R-Fla., two staff aides and Cramer's wife, who is not traveling at government expense. Rep. James C. Cleveland, R-N.H., is attending only the Sydney meetings.

Committee members will draw $50 a day expense money. It comes at each stop from a Congress-established State Department fund of local currency for congressional travelers.

Believes TV Show Hurting Republicans

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Leon Catlett, chairman of the state Democratic party, said Thursday that he could not find anybody who is specific in their criticism of the television program, "Info '68," and added that he felt the show is hurting the Republican party.

The state Republican party recently adopted a resolution urging the Democrats to continue the program.

"This was a facetious thing," Catlett said. "I think it's an indication that it is hurting them and they would do anything to get it off the air."

Catlett said he probably worked on the scripts for the program more than anyone else and denied that the scripts were being written from Huntsville. Mrs. Elizabeth Westmoreland, who moved here about eight months ago from Duluth, Minn., is the moderator of the five-minute program which is shown weekly.

Catlett said it would be difficult for him to see how the program could hurt the Democratic party but that Mrs. Westmoreland's criticism of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller for hiring out-of-staters to fill state jobs may have hurt the program some.

"However, she's not holding a state job and she is not getting paid by taxpayer money," Catlett said. "That's the big difference."

Four Persons Charged on Drug Counts

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—State Police charged four men Thursday with 289 counts of fraudulently obtaining drugs and Sgt. H. H. Atkinson said a "great many more arrests" would be made in connection with his investigation.

The four men charged with the misdemeanors were identified as Charles Washington Jr., 32, of Little Rock, 81 counts; Charles Edward Pitts, 28, of Little Rock, 79 counts; James Arthur Caldwell, 34, of Little Rock, 65 counts; and Charles T. Emery, 29, of Little Rock, 64 counts.

Atkinson said the State Police entered the case at the request of the state Pharmacy Board. He said he arrested the four men and charged each with one count of the violation Jan. 12. He said he completed his investigation Thursday and filed the other charges.

Authorities said that bottles of cough syrup containing codeine, a narcotic, had been purchased by persons who fraudulently signed exempt narcotic registers at three drug stores during the past three months.

Any medicine that contains more than four grains of codeine in a four-ounce bottle requires a doctor's prescription. A four-ounce bottle of cough syrup containing less than four grains of codeine can be purchased every 24 hours by signing the exempt narcotic registers at drug stores.

The state Pharmacy Board has scheduled hearings Feb. 13 and 14 to determine if pharmacists at the three stores had knowingly violated the state drug law.

No Plans to Punish Troops

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—A military spokesman said today there are no plans to punish Indonesian troops who killed 11 and injured 40 Chinese in hospitals.

One Chinese eyewitness said about 60 commandos, wielding knives and chains, rampaged for an hour, beating and stabbing at least 150 persons. Indonesian officers said the soldiers acted in retaliation for the beating of a comrade by some Chinese.

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Craighead County Coroner Billy Y. Emerson said Thursday that evidence indicated a murder-suicide in the deaths of Betty J. Williams, 33, of near Jonesboro, and her estranged husband, Harry Ray Williams, 55, of Walnut Ridge.
Both were found shot to death at Mrs. Williams home Thursday. Emerson said indications were that Williams shot his wife with a .22-caliber pistol and then shot himself in the temple.

CLIFFORD (from page one)

antage was widely interpreted, but never spelled out officially, as including an end to any infiltration of South Vietnam.

In Clifford's stated view, not taking advantage would mean not increasing military activity over present levels.

He said that outlook is consistent with Johnson's policy.

Demanding an end to the infiltration, sources backing Clifford's outlook said, would be the same as asking North Vietnam to allow its troops in the South "to die on the vine."

Such a condition would be totally unrealistic and sure to be rejected out of hand by Hanoi, the sources said.

While offering his views on what a bombing pause would involve, Clifford nevertheless said repeatedly under committee questioning that he was against a pause now.

He said he saw no sign Hanoi was ready to meet the condition of not taking advantage.

And Clifford said that, during a bombing pause for the lunar new year holiday a year ago, "the volume of material that poured from North Vietnam into South Vietnam was incalculable."

Ruling Favors Their Ability

MONTREAL (AP) — Two young girls from Guinea who danced bare-breasted with an African folk-dancing troupe, Les Ballets Africains, were cleared Thursday of charges under city law that they took part in an indecent performance.

Judge Henri Beaulieu of the Social Welfare Court ruled that the Dec. 6 performance did not correspond with the Criminal Code definition of obscenity or indecency.

Judge Beaulieu held: "It is apparent the young girls were chosen because of their ability as dancers and not to whet the sexual appetite of spectators."

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The single thing that has been troubling television executives for the past few seasons troubling them more than bad ratings—has been the fact that people seem to have stopped talking much about television.

The viewers groan a lot and say that days go by when they don't even bother to turn on the darned set—and one suspects that they exaggerate. But television's current offerings just don't seem to bring on the violent reactions of those good old days.

But during the past week television has—somewhat unexpectedly—moved back into the mainstream of viewers' conversation.

On Monday night the premier of NBC's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In," a midseason replacement, arrived with a pace and nerve that was stimulating. It took some impudent funny sideways on subjects ranging from government policy and Charles de Gaulle to rock n' roll and pot. And the networks, which have been afflicted with a desire to please all the people all of the time, have suddenly decided that controversial material isn't all bad.

The day after the premiere show viewers talked, with delight, about seeing a really funny show.

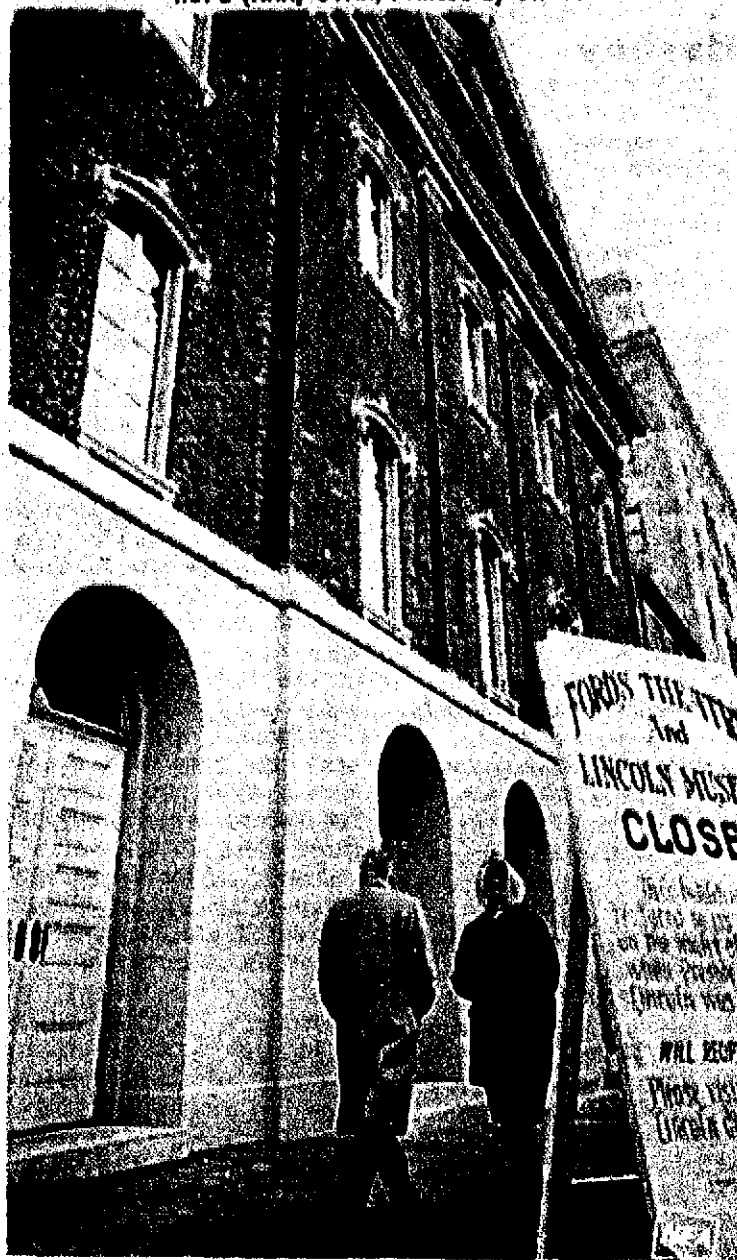

The television debut of Lee Bouvier on Wednesday night also caused excited ripples on a TV lake too long placid. Her first starring vehicle drew some deadly critical shafts, but the audience turned out to see the show.

A preliminary count by A. C. Nielsen, the audience research company, found that in the New York metropolitan area alone, "Laura" had as many viewers as the other two network stations combined.

The only thing now to fear is that controversy and satire may suddenly become very popular and like other TV fads run its course fast. And also that off-beat casting to attract audiences will become more important than the kind of plays presented.

All three networks are now in the throes of drawing up schedules for next season.

CBS, which in the past couple of seasons has been the first to announce its plans for the next

Living Memorial

Ford's Theatre, above, closed for restoration by the National Park Service, will reopen Jan. 30 in Washington, D.C., with a stage presentation, the first since the assassination of President Lincoln in 1865. Fish-eye view, top right, shows restored interior. Nearly $3 million was spent on the project. Plays will be presented from time to time and a Lincoln museum is housed in the basement.

September, plans so few changes that there are really no cliffhangers.

It is likely that Doris Day's new half-hour situation comedy series will replace "Good Morning World" on Tuesday nights, and that a 90-minute whodunit action series, "Hawaii-Five-O" will take over Thursday night's "Cimarron Strip." CBS is expected to have only one other time slot left to fill, probably the half hour now occupied by "He and She" on Wednesdays.

NBC has announced "The Name of the Game" as a 90-minute action series for Friday nights next fall. "Star Trek" is now given a 50-50 chance for survival, although in a new time period if it makes it. NBC programs believed to be candidates for oblivion include "I Dream of Jeannie," "The Danny Thomas Hour" and, almost certainly, either "I Spy" or "Run for Your Life."

Recommended tonight: "Flesh and Blood," NBC, 8:30-10:30 EST, original drama by William Hanley starring Edmond O'Brien, Kim Stanley, E. G. Marshall and Suzanne Pleshette.

Houses Set Up for Priests With Problems

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — A Montana bishop of the Episcopal Church is setting up houses for priests who he said have broken down "under the stresses of contemporary parochial life."

The Rt. Rev. Chandler W. Sterling, 57, says 2,200 Episcopal clergymen are in this category.

He says the priest with a problem suffers from feeling unneeded, guilty and hopeless—"from futility and utter frustration in his work."

"There's always somebody on his back," Bishop Sterling said, "somebody using him as a punching bag."

The first "Nicomachus House" will open March 1 at Pelham, a New York City suburb, with the blessing of the House of Bishops but without church money. The name comes from a Biblical man who "comes quietly to the door by night with a heavy heart."

"I'm going to be swamped as soon as I start," the bishop said. He has resigned as the head of the church in Montana effective March 1.

The project is called PARADON, for Pastors Anonymous, Recovery-Directed Order for Newness.

A priest would be relieved of his pastoral duties, moved to a Nicomachus House without his family, and given temporary secular work "so he can pay his way while he battles his bag."

In the halfway house, fellow priests who had survived similar crackups would counsel with the client—Bishop Sterling—

PASSING FANCY GETS FED UP WITH FANCY PASSING

Dear Helen: A male in-law of mine has a roving eye and wandering hands. From time to time he's been a little too friendly with his family kisses, but I figured it was just his way.

His wife is now expecting her third baby. He's taken to stopping by our house for coffee, and lately he seems to manage it when my husband isn't home. I've never given him any encouragement, but yesterday he followed me into the kitchen and if I hadn't spilled a cup of coffee on him—"accidentally"—well, I'd have been hollering for help.

Not wanting to cause trouble, especially for his wife, I made a joke about it. He is my husband's good buddy, cousin, so I can't insist we drop them. What do you do when you're an UNWILLING PASSING FANCY?

Dear Passing Fancy: Tell Roverboy any more "fancy passing" and he'll be a cussin' cousin—when your husband and his wife hear about it. And let him know this is no joke!—H.

Dear Helen: We have a 15-year-old daughter who goes with the "backyard swimming pool" crowd. Most of her friends have new, modern homes and her one great wish is for us to build a new house on our dairy farm. If we did, our business would suffer as we need new equipment and stock. We try to tell her our roomy, solid, 50-year-old family home has tradition and class that can't be bought and she should learn to accept people as they are, not for what they can buy. Ours is a warm and loving family. Her friends know this, as they spend much of their spare time here. We have so much more than just a new house with a big mortgage.

How can I make her see?—HAPPY FARM WIFE AND MOTHER

Dear Happy: I'm sure your daughter DOES see, but she also sees herself as "the different one," and this can turn even a sensible girl into a temporary snob.

Try to show her that most of us feel "different" in one way or another, and her friends on Mortgage Hill are no exception. Maybe some of them are as envious of her warm family life as she is of their possessions. If they were content with their fancy houses and pools, would they spend so much time at your happy HOME?—H.

P.S. After you see her side of it, then show her yours—with a good, hard look at the farm's financial picture. Perhaps you could work out a compromise plan that would let you modernize the house and still buy your needed equipment and stock.

Dear Helen: This is for the retired person who found extra time a terrible burden.

First, he should call the Volunteers Bureau or equivalent in his town. A person with any administrative or technical skills—or just a willingness to serve—will never want for jobs to do in charitable work.

Second, he should get involved in recreation aimed at the "mature." I'm thinking of bridge clubs, square dancing, bowling, golf, etc. And not just as a participant, but as an organizer. As an active square dance club member, I can vouch for the need, and the appreciation for those who will do the many chores of organization that arise every day in the life of recreational clubs.

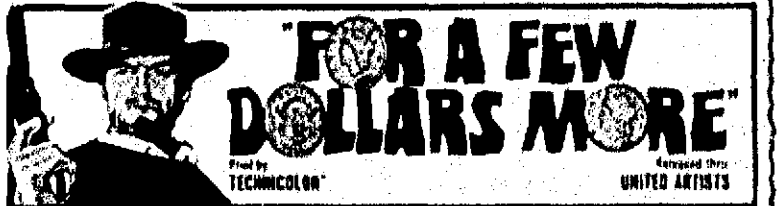

It's best to search out these activities before you retire, so that you won't find yourself at loose ends.—DR. A.C.

Bobcats to Play Camden Lincoln

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sportswriter

For the Hope Bobcats, tonight will make a difference on the entire season. But at first glance the Cats' confrontation with the Camden Lincoln Wildcats may not seem so important.

However, the Bobcats badly need a win; first, to put them over the .500 mark in 4-AA, and secondly, to give more confidence to the local team while playing on the road. Should the Cats come up with a good night, and hold the momentum into the Saturday night home bout with the Arkadelphia Badgers, then Hope would be off and running.

As of now, though, Camden Lincoln probably looks upon the Bobcats as a team they won't have problems in beating. But the tale will be reversed if the Cats can cut down on the floor errors and improve on their 50.0 per game average in conference play.

The game will be preceded by a junior high game, as the crippled Hope Bobkittens limp into a game with Lincoln Jr. High. Latest among the Bobkitten casualties is starting post man Tim White, who was playing well as an eighth-grader. Suffering from an ankle injury, Tim will be out of action for two months, which means the rest of the season.

Remember the games in Spring Hill too, as the Jr. and Sr. Girls and "B" Boys scrap. First tip-off is set for 6:00 p.m. in the final regularly-scheduled game for both girls teams before the Lady Cats head for post-season tournament play.

A final note about the Bradley Bearetttes, who began their conquest of the Joe T. Robinson Tournament Tuesday by clobbering Omaha 65-34. We would like to wish them all the luck in the world, and we hope they can repeat as state Class B champions.

Greer Picks Up Where He Left Off

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hal Greer has picked up in the regular season where he left off in the National Basketball Association All-Star game, but not Zelmo Beaty. And that doesn't make Beaty unhappy at all.

Big Z, a flop in Tuesday's classic, looked quite a bit better Thursday night, pumping in a career high 42 points that carried the St. Louis Hawks to a 105-93 victory over Boston in Miami Beach.

Greer, voted the most valuable player in the All-Star game, continued his hot hand with 35 points and led Philadelphia to a 123-108 triumph over the slumping Detroit Pistons in Detroit.

In other games, the New York Knicks rode a long-range barrage by Cazzle Russell and Dick Barnett to a 126-118 victory over host Chicago. Elgin Baylor lifted Los Angeles past Cincinnati 118-116 in the last 10 seconds at Cleveland, and Baltimore tumbled San Diego 127-113 in San Diego.

In the American Basketball Association, Minnesota manhandled New Jersey 137-105, Dallas slipped by New Orleans 102-101 and Anaheim dipped Oakland 124-115.

Beaty, who managed only two field goals in 11 attempts in the All-Star game, fired in 16 of 24 and 10 of 11 free throws against the Celtics and held Bill Russell to only four free throws.

The big center saved the best for last after the Celtics had taken a 64-63 lead in the third quarter. He hit 11 points in that period as the Hawks took the lead for good and then added 17, including 13 in less than six minutes, in the final session.

Greer, whose 14 straight points brought the East from behind to victory over the West in the All-Star game, paced the 76ers to a 68-53 halftime spread. When Detroit climbed within eight in the final quarter, his three points started a string of seven straight that took Philadelphia out of danger.

Russell and Barnett, consistently hitting long jumpers, combined for 58 points, 31 by Russell, and pulled New York away from a 74-74 tie as the Bulls lost their fourth straight game. Baylor scored three of his 28

Boston C. Will Play UCLA Sat.

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

There was a mystery college basketball game Thursday night. Boston College beat LeMoyne, N.Y., 90-61 at Syracuse.

When the score came in there was a scurrying around in some sports departments. Boston College, slated to meet mighty UCLA in New York Saturday night, did not have any game with LeMoyne listed in its pre-season schedule. Neither did LeMoyne's list any Jan. 25 game with BC.

It developed that the game was arranged after the original schedules had been published. It provided a nice warmup for the Bob Cousy-coached Eagles before their confrontation with UCLA and famed Lew Alcindor.

A sellout crowd of 2,200 at the LeMoyne Athletic Center saw Steve Adelman, with 18, and Terry Driscoll, with 17, combine for 35 points in leading the Eagles to their ninth victory in 13 starts.

The unbeaten Brown Indians of St. Bonaventure, fifth-ranked in The Associated Press poll, made it 15 in a row by defeating St. Francis of Pennsylvania 74-58 at Olean, N.Y. Sophomore Bob Lanier led the Bonnies with 23 points and 23 rebounds.

No other team in the AP Top Ten saw action as the midyear exam lull continued to keep many teams idle.

Bill Schultsky's 37 points paced Army to a 75-69 victory

Minnesota Tunes Up for Big Battle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Minnesota tuned up for its battle for first place with an easy victory, and New Orleans better start tuning up tonight before it finds itself in the same position.

Minnesota lengthened its Eastern Division lead in the American Basketball Association to one game by dismantling visiting New Jersey 137-105 Thursday night, and set up its clash against runnerup Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh tonight.

But New Orleans dropped a 102-101 squeaker at home to Dallas, pulling the third-place Chaparrals within three games of the Western lead.

Now the Buccaneers must face second-place Denver at New Orleans tonight with only a 2½-game lead.

In the only other game Thursday night, Anaheim pelted Oakland 124-115.

In the National Basketball Association, St. Louis defeated Boston 105-93, Philadelphia routed Detroit 123-108, New York beat Chicago 126-118, Los Angeles edged Cincinnati 118-116 and Baltimore topped San Diego 127-113.

Minnesota set a team scoring record, despite only five points by Mel Daniels, its leading scorer, in the Muskies' fifth straight victory and 10th in a row at home.

A six minute stretch without a field goal by the Americans sent Minnesota into a 49-24 lead. Ron Perry paced the Muskies with 23 points.

John Beasley hit an eight-foot jumper with three seconds left to beat New Orleans after Red Robbins hit two free throws with 17 seconds left to give the Bucs the lead. Beasley finished with 31 points.

Ben Warley collected 11 points in the final period in triggering Anaheim's victory over Oakland. The Amigos overcame an 88-86 deficit with a 38-point outpour in the fourth quarter.

Steve Chubin topped Anaheim with 34 points and Warley contributed 24. Mel Peterson was high for the Oaks with 28 points — 14 in the third period.

Of all our presidents, James Monroe in 1820 received the largest percentage of the electoral vote. 231 out of 232.

Porkers Lose in Overtime

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma City University took advantage of a technical foul against Arkansas Coach Duddy Waller to convert three free throws and beat the Razorbacks 92-90 in overtime here Thursday night.

Oklahoma City led 89-88 when Waller was charged with a technical foul after protesting an official's call.

Rick Travis scored the free throw and Ardell England put in two more to put the game out of reach.

Arkansas' Benton Cone had sent the game into overtime with a steal and a layup with two seconds left. The regulation game ended 85-86.

Travis led the Chiefs with 35 points while Robert McKenzie scored 33 and James Eldridge 24 for the Razorbacks.

Negroes at California Make Demands

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Negro athletes at the University of California insist that, unless their demands are met, they will quit their teams.

A joint statement said Thursday their boycott threat did not end with the return of five Negroes to basketball practice. They are seeking the firing of three white coaches and the hiring of several Negro coaches.

Spokesman Bobby Smith said, "The threat definitely is serious but we are willing to wait until the committee appointed by Chancellor Roger Heyns to investigate our demands has time to investigate."

Discrimination Against Whites

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An order to end bias in the rental of apartments has been issued to a North Philadelphia real estate broker — with a slight twist.

The broker, Morton N. Neufeld, has been ordered to cease discriminating against whites.

The city Commission on Human Relations reported a white investigator for the agency was told there were no apartments available in a certain area when he applied at the real estate office. A second investigator and a Negro, Mrs. Hermine Cherry, testified at a hearing that she was offered four rental listings when she entered the office a few minutes later.

Callup Catches Arkansans by Surprise

By PETER YOUNG
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Len Bilheimer, a 22-year-old Little Rock barber, opened up his own shop eight months ago in a fashionable apartment house here and says "I've just about got my business established."

Today, Bilheimer and some 760 other members of the Arkansas Air National Guard report to Little Rock Air Force Base for active duty and an uncertain future because of the Korean crisis.

Bilheimer, a S. Sgt. in the 189th Tactical Reconnaissance, said he joined the reserves, like many others, to avoid the inevitable draft so "I could go to school or have a job or anything I wanted."

"The chances of you getting called up are pretty slim," he said, "But then it just happened."

And it happened to 14,787 reservists around the country who were ordered to active duty as a military backdrop for diplomatic efforts to recover the Pueblo and its 83-man crew.

The 189th Tactical Reconnaissance Group of the Arkansas National Guard, which includes the 154th Weather Flight, the 189th Communications Flight and the 123rd Reconnaissance Technical Squadron, was in the call.

The 669 airmen and 100 officers have until 10 a.m. today to report for duty. Any members who have not reported by midnight tonight will be considered absent without leave.

The call caught both rank men and officers by surprise and many leave behind business and family for an uncertain destiny. As Bilheimer said, "My (guard) contract has got that little clause in there that says they can keep me in 24 months."

Col. Drew Holbrook, commander of the 189th, said the move came as a complete surprise. "Just from following the news it didn't seem at least that the situation was that serious," he said.

Holbrook, a geologist with the Arkansas Geology Commission, who saw World War II as an Army Air Corps fighter pilot and was recalled during the Korean War, said guardsmen who hold down a job would "certainly be making somewhat of a sacrifice" during the call-up.

Dr. E. Stewart Allen, 35, of Little Rock and a major in the reserve, said "It's just one of those things. It's a chance you take when you belong to the reserves," he said, "Everyone's still shocked."

Allen leaves behind two children, "That's what makes it tough," he said.

H. Lynn Wassell Jr., a Little Rock architect, like Allen, went into the guard from active service. He is a major and a pilot. "Like everyone else," Wassell said, "It's something that you have to expect, but you really don't."

He said the foremost thing now among reservists was to get their business straightened out at home, instead of worrying about what lies ahead for them, Wassell is married and has a 20-month-old son.

Sgt. Maj. James Corley, who has 26 years of service, couldn't "believe it, but I guess I'll have to go."

"I have three kids, but the last one graduates from high school this year, so I won't have the problem some of the men will have in moving and breaking up the family," he said.

Corley will be going with his son, Ronald, 22, who is in the same group. "I think this is better," he said.

Secret Data on Pueblo Destroyed

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The intelligence ship Pueblo's crew blew up the vessel's secret coding machine and the North Koreans apparently got "nothing that really compromises us," say Navy sources.

These sources said there was evidence of this in the messages from the Pueblo's skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher.

Except for the coding machine, the Navy sources said Thursday the rest of the Pueblo's gear was "routine stuff," including tape recorders to store such intercepted data as radio messages.

Ever since the Pueblo was captured by four North Korean patrol boats near midnight Monday, there has been public concern the Communists might have bagged important equipment which could have told the enemy much about this country's intelligence gathering know-how.

The Pentagon has said messages from Bucher, before his radio went dead, indicated he and his men had started to destroy secret gear to keep it out of North Korean hands. But the Defense Department has not said how successful Bucher was.

New reports circulated to the effect that four crewmen were wounded in the explosions that were set off to blow up the Pueblo's sensitive equipment.

But Navy sources restated it is still uncertain how the four men were hurt. The messages did not say, they insisted.

The sources said there is some evidence that the North Koreans fired at the Pueblo with their 40-millimeter guns before boarding.

"The wounds could have happened either way—from gunfire or their own charges blowing up the equipment," one source said.

The Navy sources disclosed at the same time that the Pueblo's skipper was under standing orders to avoid a fight and to keep his ship's machine guns sheathed under canvas.

"She was supposed to present the appearance of being a non-combatant," said one senior officer.

The Defense Department has refused to discuss the standing instructions the vessel's skipper took with him on his patrol of about two weeks, except to say Bucher did not ask for special instructions after he was challenged by North Korean patrol boats Monday night.

The Navy sources said Bucher's orders called for him to move out of an area if harassed and to avoid firing his guns.

The aim was to sidestep an international incident. It was indicated that such orders are handed out to the captains of all U.S. intelligence-gathering ships.

Navy officers said the Pueblo did try to get under way after being besieged by the patrol craft.

"He made a move toward open water, but he couldn't go more than a few yards because they surrounded him and he had to cut his engines," one officer said.

These sources spoke from a knowledge of messages which went from the Pueblo to higher command during the Pueblo's ordeal.

The Pueblo's crew did not have time to scuttle her, the Navy sources said.

diamonds, with the third diamond being ruffed. Since diamonds had broken 3-3, South was able to enter dummy with his nine of trumps and discard one heart on the 13th diamond.

This sort of play comes up all the time. It doesn't always work because suits have a nasty habit of not breaking 3-3, but you can see that South risked nothing by trying it.

If diamonds hadn't broken, South could still have tried the heart lead. It wouldn't have worked. The ace would still be in the East hand, but South would have given himself an extra chance.

although some of our modern minimum bidders would content themselves with merely bidding two.

North could hardly contain himself and went right into Blackwood. He was slightly disappointed at learning there was a missing ace. He considered a six no-trump call but finally settled for six spades.

It was a very good settlement. As long as East did not open a heart against no-trump, there would have been no play for that slam. At first glance there seems to be no play for six spades without a low heart lead from West. South must attack hearts himself, and the ace is back of dummy's king.

South also felt that way at first. Then he discovered an extra chance and proceeded to make his contract.

Two leads pulled the adverse trumps and South carefully retained the nine in dummy. Then he played three rounds of clubs in order to discard one of his diamonds. Next came three rounds of

Here are seekers after God. They are anxious and determined. They want in... will those doors open? Is it any use to knock? Jesus said, "ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened to you." Big locks and heavy doors will break open to those of great faith. Your child and mine need God; they need His church. God said to Joshua, "as I was with Moses so I will be with Thee." "Maybe He's here?" He said, "Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me."

Clifford's Confirmation Is Assured

WASHINGTON (AP) - Signs indicate the Senate Armed Services Committee will give quick approval to the nomination of Clark Clifford to be the nation's defense chief.

Clifford, 61, tapped last Friday by President Johnson to succeed Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, appears today before the committee.

The panel's chairman, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., already has praised Johnson's selection of the lawyer and presidential adviser as "an excellent choice" and reaction from other panel members was along similar lines.

The committee's approval would send the nomination to the Senate floor for final action. Although both Democrats and Republicans on the Armed Services Committee applauded the nomination, some senators said they would make certain that Clifford disposes of any securities or other interests in corporations linked with defense contracts.

Clifford already has announced he would do this and sever all connections with his law firm here if confirmed.

Population Factors Make Figures Jump

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Publications

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Social Security, a mammoth enterprise already, will begin to take on truly staggering proportions in a bit more than three decades—in the year 2000.

Presently there are just under 24 million Americans drawing retirement, survivors, or disability benefits—not to mention the added protection most of these are getting under Medicare.

Official estimates for the number likely to be drawing payments in 2000 range from 37 million to 42 million.

If that does not seem a large rise, consider the outlook for 2025, when the number of benefit recipients is estimated to range from 53.7 million to 58.6 million.

So, when one talks of "future coverage" in Social Security, what is involved is simply a steady enlargement of numbers of people in categories already covered. (There are today no significant groups of Americans not covered by Social Security or by other social insurance plans under civil service and railroad retirement.)

The enlargement of numbers is a consequence of several factors—basic population growth, a soaring total of aged persons in a b o l u t e terms though not significantly in percentage of the overall population, advances in medicine and diet which are keeping people alive longer and longer and hence on Social Security rolls longer.

Population age trends evidently have swung through several cycles. For a time two decades or more ago, it seemed accurate and was quite fashionable to say that the American population was, proportionately, aging fast.

More recently, a "youthening" trend was detected, but public figures tended to overstate it. The median age never did drop to 25, as some politicians and others asserted. It is around 27 now, and rising slightly as birth rates, at least for the time, have slipped off.

But the country's total population is today so huge, having passed 200 million and being bent, apparently, on a still higher course, that absolute numbers in all age groups are tremendous.

At the aged end of the spectrum, the trend is magnified by health advances (and, of course, the very treatments made possible now under Social Security's Medicare features) which keep tens of thousands alive longer than a few decades back.

In this country today there are an estimated 13,000 people 100 years of age or older. Not long ago, the centenarians could be counted on the fingers of a few hands.

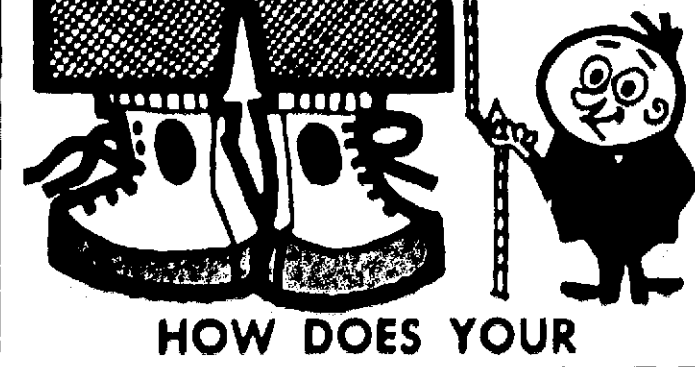

More remarkable still, the Census Bureau estimates that there are 240,000 Americans 90 years old or more.

These particular aged folk are too old today to have done the work and piled up the earnings needed to qualify for any but the most limited special Social Security benefits. But they are a harbinger of the future. Those who replace them later in the upper age brackets WILL be qualified—and will draw benefits a long time.

These are the operative trends for anyone interested in Social Security's future coverage, since coverage across the work spectrum is nearly universal today. The only new group brought under the tent by the 1967 law were clerical men. They could qualify before by taking certain steps. Now they are in unless they opt out.

Ex-Russian Officer Guides North Koreans

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

A Special Correspondent

A former general in the Soviet Army, drilled by the Kremlin in how to communize North Korea, now occupies the spotlight in a tense crisis which conceivably could bring his Russian mentors into confrontation with the United States.

Kim Il Sung, premier of North Korea, is described by those who knew him in the old days as a man who never had an original thought. His thoughts today may not be original, but if a pro-Communist writer's reports about them are true, he is convinced that a new war with the United States is all but inevitable.

The writer is Wilfred Burchett, an Australian who for two decades has reported from Communist capitals and war fronts and who often echoes the hardest of Communist lines. Burchett describes the views of Kim and other North Korean leaders in a book, "Again Korea," to be published by International Publishers of New York. It is written wholly from the Communist viewpoint and places on the United States all the blame for tension in the Korean peninsula.

The way Burchett puts it, the North Korean leaders are convinced that for 18 years the United States has been plotting war against them, and they fully expect another round of Korean conflict.

Premier Kim, a roly-poly man of 56 who has been a Communist since his boyhood, is pictured as gloomily emphasizing that "things may be destroyed again" in North Korea, 15 years after the end of the Korean conflict of 1950-53.

Kim's representative on the Military Armistice Commission, Maj. Gen. Pak Chung Kook, is represented as feeling that there is "overwhelming evidence" that the United States is intent on launching a new war.

Burchett links rising tension to President Johnson's visit to South Korea in October 1966, comparing it with the 1950 visit by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, which the Communists insist was a prelude to carrying out plans for hostilities. Burchett claims that American strategy "seems aimed at building up incidents" to a point where North Koreans take countermeasures. Thereupon, he says, both the United States and Japan would go to war against North Korea, Japan once ruled Korea.

Burchett more than once has been able to predict Communist actions. He visited Premier Kim and other North Korean leaders in 1967, and thus the indication is that they were thinking long ago in terms of the inevitability of a resumed Korean war.

One important question is this: Is the present taunting of the American eagle Kim's own idea? Did inspiration or encouragement come from the outside, and if so, from what source?

Despite Kim's reputation for lack of originality, this phase of the tension perhaps can be attributed to North Korean initiative. The Communists there have been keeping the Red Chinese at arm's length, and not long ago also indicated some independence from Moscow. The North Korean leaders seemed to have been annoyed with Moscow for not showing more belligerency toward the Americans in Asia.

Kim Il Sung may have been happier in the Stalin era, when he cut his political teeth. He studied in Moscow before World War II, joined a North Korean unit fighting beside the Russians against the Germans, and emerged as a major general in the Soviet Army.

Intelligence sources in Korea long ago pegged Kim as hand-picked by Moscow to take over all Korea for communism. Under the protection of Soviet occupation troops, he was installed in Pyongyang in 1945, bearing the title of a North Korean marshal.

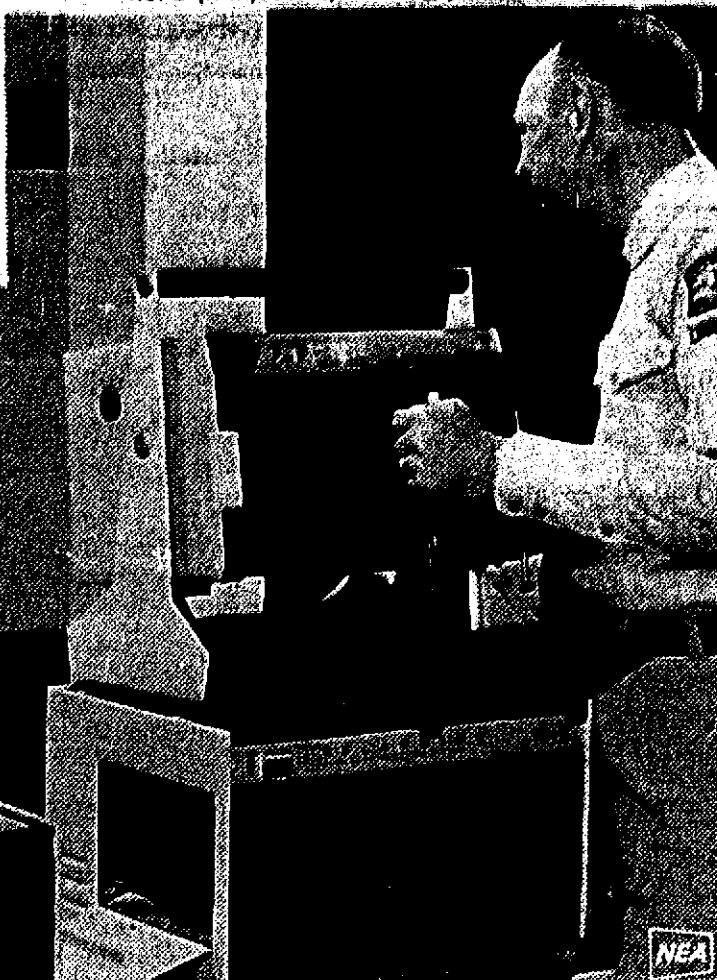

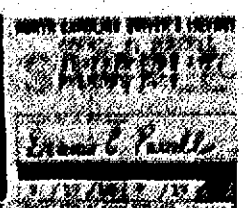

His real name is Kim Jung Su. Kim Il Sung is the name of a Korean hero-martyr who fought in the anti-Japanese underground and who, had he lived, would be close to 100 years old today.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

EKG Helps in Diagnosing Some Heart Disorders

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—My doctor says I have agranulocytosis. What causes it? How does it affect a person? Is there any treatment for it?

A—In this disease, also called leukopenia or granulocytopenia, there is a white blood cell count of less than 4,000 per cubic millimeter (normal 5,000 to 10,000). There are many causes, which include a variety of infections (most infections cause an increase in the white cell count), chronic debility, malnutrition, some forms of anemia and an allergy to certain drugs. The only treatment is to make a careful search for the cause and eliminate it.

Q—I have had several electrocardiograms but they were all negative, yet the least exertion causes chest pains, skipped beats, shortness of breath and nausea. Could it be that electrocardiograms can't show the cause of all these symptoms?

A—The EKG is of great value in diagnosing some, but not all, kinds of heart disorder, notably disturbances of rhythm and coronary heart attacks. The symptoms you mention do not suggest organic heart disease but rather chronic anxiety or some deep-seated emotional problem.

Q—I have heard that a doctor in Canada has had good results with vitamin E rather than the use of anticoagulants in the treatment of heart attacks. Is this an effective treatment?

A—The effects of vitamin E are limited and the supply in even the most restricted diet is adequate to your needs. In the treatment of the early stage of a heart attack, it should not replace anticoagulants.

Q—Three years ago my sister had a coronary heart attack. She is now taking Dexamyl, Demeral and sleeping pills. Is this combination safe or would something else be better?

A—Dexamyl is given to curb the appetite. It contains a barbiturate to help induce sleep. Demeral is a pain killer. These drugs should not be taken indefinitely, and only under medical supervision.

Q—My husband died of a heart attack while away from home. Would this have caused him to have terrible pain or could he have died in his sleep? If he had taken blood thinners would that have prevented the attack?

A—Although most heart attacks are accompanied by some pain or discomfort the intensity of the pain varies and some attacks are painless and occur during sleep. Blood thinners or anticoagulants in the first few months after an attack help to prevent a recurrence but do not insure that another attack will not occur. After two to five years they lose their effectiveness.

WR to Replace Stockholders in Burch Co.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said no evidence of any law violation, "I have made a complete and total investigation of the whole situation and frankly there is no evidence of anybody who has violated any law or been assign certain members of his administration who were stockholders in Burch Co."

Rockefeller said, however, that his investigation into the firm produced no evidence of any law violation.

The state Securities Department halted the firm's $100,000 stock sales promotion last August.

Airport
Vietnam
Convention

Because he's an editor, although no air pilot, your writer has just received the 1968 Arkansas Aeronautical Chart issued by the Arkansas Department of Aeronautics, Little Rock, of which Jimmy Woodard is executive director.

This, of course, is a map designed for flyers and wouldn't be of much help to a highway traveler. Highways are noted, but emphasis is given to altitude figures for mountains, and details of airports are spelled out. When you read the statistics of all the airports in the state you realize what a magnificent plant we have in Hope's municipal airport. It is one of Arkansas' very top airports — as it should be, having been constructed for big military ships in the World War II days of the Southwestern Proving Ground.

Shortly we will offer our subscribers a Vietnam booklet which is being sold through the facilities of The Associated Press. You will find it an authentic and absorbing story well worth the small purchase price.

AP sent me a sample copy and a proposition by which subscribers may obtain the booklet through orders mailed directly to New York City. I accepted the deal, and received confirmation yesterday.

Promotion material will begin appearing in The Star shortly. You have my word for it that this AP-produced book is excellent.

During the two-year construction period when we were installing our new offset printing plant and making the required changes in our building (1965-67) The Star fell behind in its obligation to make staff appearances at Arkansas Press Association conventions.

We began correcting matters last week when six of us attended the Summer convention of the APA at Hot Springs.

And we will further the cause today and Saturday when your editor and Circulation Manager C. M. (Pod) Rogers, Jr., and Mechanical Superintendent Billy Dan Jones will be attending APA's Winter convention, also in Hot Springs.

That's not bad for a guy who personally detests conventions. The exception, of course, is when you are meeting fellow newspaper people and discussing the common problems of these complex and exciting days.

So I fed the dogs, and the ducks and geese in the "back 40," early this morning — and took off with Rogers & Jones.

Youths March for Dimes Saturday

Hilda Quillen, spokesman for the local March of Dimes chapter, announced today that a teenage March of Dimes queen would be selected Saturday afternoon starting at 1 p.m. in a radiothon held on KXAR.

Voting will extend over a two-week period and end with a March of Dimes dance in her honor at a date to be announced. The four contestants have been selected from the four classes of Hope High. Voting will be by contributions given in her name.

All four contestants will appear on the radio to speak on their behalf and appeal for contributions. Other features of the radiothon include cakes, pies and bone steak dinners to go to contributors to the March of Dimes.

Local talent will be Donna and Rhonda Langston of Laneburg, Vickie Burke of Nashville, as well as others. These two groups will appear on the radiothon between 3 and 4 p.m. Between 4 and 5 p.m. Ken and the Outlaws featuring the Jabettes from Yerger High School will have an hour.

Local teenagers will offer their services as baby-sitting and yard work hands at the highest bid for a contribution to the March of Dimes. The Jaycees are joining the local chapter in staging these events. Be sure to listen from 1:00 to 6:00 p.m. on KXAR for the 1968 March of Dimes Radiothon.

Living Costs Whipping Out Wage Gains

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs, climbing at a 10-year record pace and more than wiping out wage gains of many Americans, are causing White House concern in this election year.

For all Americans, a White House source said Thursday, the rising prices mean "you've got trouble and it's not on the horizon, it's all around you."

The Labor Department reported Thursday living costs rose 3.1 percent in 1967.

"Not only are they clipping along, but at an accelerated rate," the White House source said of steadily climbing costs of food, clothing, housing, transportation and medical care.

The price hikes in the final quarter of 1967 would add up to an annual rate of 3.5 percent if they continued this year, said Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

And, Chase said, "It looks as if the trend would continue."

"Almost everything went up in December except automobiles and gasoline," Chase said in reporting final 1967 figures.

The Consumer Price Index in December showed its third straight monthly rise of three-tenths of one percent and wound up the year at 118.2.

This means it cost $11.82 last month for every $10 worth of typical family goods and services in the 1957-59 period which the government uses as a base for measuring the rise in living costs.

In other terms, the 1957-59 dollar sustained a loss of 15.4 cents over the past 10 years.

Some 45 million workers — 80 percent of the nation's work force — lost 27 cents a week in purchasing power over the past year despite wage gains of $3.28 to an average of $103.25 a week.

President Johnson, in his State of the Union speech earlier this month, warned of "an accelerating spiral of price increases, a slump in home building and a continuing erosion of the American dollar." If Congress doesn't enact his proposed 10 percent income tax surcharge.

Equally worrisome to government economists is a rapid rise in wholesale prices of industrial raw materials such as lumber, metals and textiles, which remained virtually stable the first half of 1967 but jumped 1.3 percent in the last five months of the year.

Food prices, the most stable item in living costs in 1967, rose a comparatively slight three-tenths of one percent. But a wholesale jump of 2.8 percent in farm prices and 1 percent in processed foods in December and January indicate higher grocery costs, particularly for fruits and vegetables.

Foreign Travel Curb Ignored by Touring House Subcommittee

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A week after President Johnson curtailed foreign travel by government employees, a House subcommittee is touring the Pacific and, a Treasury official says, contributing to the dollar drain.

The subcommittee says its three-week tour doesn't affect the balance of payments.

But William W. Diehl, director of the Treasury's Office of International Economic Activity, said in an interview that despite a Congress-mandated bookkeeping system which provides local currency for congressional tourists, the net effect of the trip is to spend dollars abroad.

In no country the group is visiting does the United States have a foreign currency balance, said Diehl. "If we don't have a foreign currency balance on hand," said Diehl, "our disbursing officers overseas have to go into the market with dollars and replenish their foreign currency."

Clifford Affirms U.S. Military Policy Until Ceasefire Agreed Upon

By ROBERT T. GRAY
Associated Press Writer

Successor to Gardner Not Known

By JACK MILLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Gardner's sudden resignation as secretary of health, education and welfare was prompted in part by his belief Congress and most American's won't face up to severe domestic problems, sources report.

Gardner's resignation Thursday, to take effect March 1, caught even his closest associates by surprise. President Johnson accepted it "with deep regret."

No successor to the Cabinet post has been named but initial speculation focused on HEW Undersecretary Wilbur J. Cohen, 54, a veteran of federal social programs since the New Deal days of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In his resignation letter to Johnson, Gardner pointed out he had planned to stay only two years in the Cabinet and already has served six months longer.

An official close to the HEW chief, asked to explain the resignation, handed a newsmen a copy of a Gardner speech last month and pointed to these paragraphs:

"I believe we are now in a situation in which the gravest consequences for this nation will ensue if we fail to act decisively on the problems of the cities, poverty and discrimination. "It does not seem to me that either Congress or the public is fully aware of the alarming character of our domestic crisis. We are in deep trouble as a people. And history is not going to deal kindly with a rich nation that will not tax itself to cure its own miseries."

Gardner has reportedly chafed at budget cutbacks in HEW programs forced in part by increased U.S. expenditures in Vietnam.

But a White House spokesman said the resignation had nothing to do with Vietnam, and Gardner said neither war policies nor budget cuts were factors.

Gardner, 55, a Republican who formerly headed the Carnegie Corporation, said he would return to the foundation as a consultant on city problems.

a softening — of Johnson's stated policy on a bombing halt. But they acknowledged it represented a more detailed breakdown of administration policy than publicly discussed before.

U.S. policymakers were reported earlier this month to be seeking firm indications from the enemy that a bombing halt would produce not only prompt peace talks but an agreement not to send any reinforcements into South Vietnam.

Clifford told a Senate Armed Services Committee, which approved his nomination, that he did not expect the enemy to halt entirely its military activities during any bombing pause. "Their military activity will continue in South Vietnam, I assume, until there is a cease-fire agreed upon," he said. "I assume that they will continue to transport the normal amount of goods, munitions and men to South Vietnam."

He also told the committee, "I assume we will continue to maintain our forces and support our forces during that period."

Johnson has set basic U.S. policy as a willingness to halt the bombing if there was a chance "productive" peace talks would begin promptly and the enemy did not "take advantage of our restraint as they have in the past."

Two Marines Tiptoe Past Red Guards, Race to Jungle and Safety

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer
DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — After two weeks in North Vietnamese captivity, two young U.S. Marines tiptoed past a dozing guard and raced barefoot through the jungle to safety.

Cpl. Steven D. Nelson, 19, of Elkhart, Ind., and Lance Cpl. Michael Robert Roha, 20, of National City, Calif., were in excellent shape when they reached U.S. Marine positions Tuesday, two days after their escape. Now they are going home to duty in the United States, 10½ months early for Roha, nine months for Nelson.

Nelson's family was notified Jan. 9 that he was killed in action. They were notified that he was safe as soon as he returned.

Nelson said the report he was killed was based on a wrong identification of a body by a Marine buddy.

Nelson and Roha told a news conference today about their capture and escape.

They were with a Marine pacification team in the hamlet of Chua Luu, about 17 miles northwest of Da Nang, when about 200 North Vietnamese attacked their outpost Jan. 7. Of the 17 Marines and 29 Vietnamese militiamen there, seven Leathernecks were killed and all the rest, except Roha and Nelson, were wounded.

Nelson, wearing only his undershorts, was grabbed by six North Vietnamese when he ran to the main bunker to try to call for help, found the bunker in flames and ran out.

"It was like I had the ball and they tackled me," he said. "Two of them jumped up on my shoulders, another had hold of my legs," he said.

Roha saw a wounded Marine and ran for a medic, not realizing that the North Vietnamese had taken the outpost.

"The first thing I saw were

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces killed 18 Americans and wounded 138 others in a rash of attacks up and down South Vietnam in the 36 hours before the start tonight of a cease-fire proclaimed by the Viet Cong for the lunar new year festival.

The targets of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese included two U.S. Marine convoys which were ambushed just below the demilitarized zone.

But at Khe Sanh, the Marine outpost in the northwest corner of the country where U.S. commanders believe the biggest Red offensive of the war is being readied, the U.S. Command said action was "limited to sporadic mortar and artillery duels."

Communist forces were scheduled to start a seven-day truce at 1 a.m. Saigon time Saturday, or noon EST Friday. The allies have announced their cease-fire for Tet, the new year festival, will run for only 36 hours, from 6 p.m. Monday to 6 a.m. Wednesday.

In one of the Communist attacks Thursday night, on the La Khe base where the U.S. 1st Infantry Division has its headquarters 19 miles north of Saigon, Communist troops crept to

Air Reservists Called Up, Quest Continues for Release of Pueblo

14,800 Are Mustered Indefinitely

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 14,800 air reservists prepared to muster for indefinite active duty as the U.S. government explores diplomatic paths to a bloodless settlement of the Pueblo crisis.

The United States takes the Pueblo case to the Security Council.

Some say North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung never had an original thought, but the current tension perhaps has been caused by North Korea, not Peking or Moscow.

U.S. Navy sources say the Pueblo's crew blew up the ship's coding machine and the North Vietnamese apparently got "nothing that really compromises us."

Snowbank in Her Living Room
CORNWALL, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. John Garlough suddenly found herself in the middle of a snowbank in her living room.

A gear on the blower shaft of a city snowblower broke as the machine passed in front of her house. Flying ice and snow broke the living room window and piled up on the floor. Mrs. Garlough suffered minor cuts from flying glass.

City work crews shoveled out the snow, cleaned up her living room and replaced the window.

Any move to try the Americans would almost certainly inflame members of Congress, some of whom already are demanding direct military action to reclaim the ship and its men.

Navy sources in Washington said messages from the ship's master, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, furnish evidence that the crew blew up the Pueblo's secret coding machine and that the North Koreans evidently got "nothing that really compromises us."

PUEBLO—NORTH KOREA
Nearly 14,800 air reservists prepare to report for indefinite duty as the U.S. government explores diplomatic paths to a bloodless settlement of the Pueblo crisis.

The United States takes the Pueblo case to the Security Council.

Some say North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung never had an original thought, but the current tension perhaps has been caused by North Korea, not Peking or Moscow.

U.S. Navy sources say the Pueblo's crew blew up the ship's coding machine and the North Vietnamese apparently got "nothing that really compromises us."

VIETNAM
Communist troops attack two U.S. airfields in the central highlands and fire on a U.S. Marine artillery unit as the Viet Cong cease-fire nears.

Clark Clifford says the administration isn't demanding a complete halt to North Vietnamese infiltration of South Vietnam as a condition for stopping the bombing.

After two weeks as captives of the North Vietnamese, two U.S. Marines tiptoed past a dozing guard and race barefoot through the jungle to safety.

WASHINGTON
John W. Gardner resigned as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare partly because he felt Congress isn't facing up to domestic problems, Washington sources say.

A House subcommittee is touring the Pacific and contributing to the dollar drain a week after President Johnson curtailed travel by federal employees.

Living costs are climbing at a 10-year record pace. A government official says "It looks as if the trend would continue."

An Episcopal bishop sets up a working refuge for priests devastated by personal problems.

Snowbank in Her Living Room
CORNWALL, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. John Garlough suddenly found herself in the middle of a snowbank in her living room.

A gear on the blower shaft of a city snowblower broke as the machine passed in front of her house. Flying ice and snow broke the living room window and piled up on the floor. Mrs. Garlough suffered minor cuts from flying glass.

City work crews shoveled out the snow, cleaned up her living room and replaced the window.

Any move to try the Americans would almost certainly inflame members of Congress, some of whom already are demanding direct military action to reclaim the ship and its men.

Navy sources in Washington said messages from the ship's master, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, furnish evidence that the crew blew up the Pueblo's secret coding machine and that the North Koreans evidently got "nothing that really compromises us."

Crises Goes Before UN Council

By CHARLES STORER
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States carried its quest for a peaceful solution to the Pueblo crisis to the U.N. Security Council today.

Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said the aim was the immediate return of the ship and its crew of 83 from captivity in North Korea.

Goldberg requested an urgent meeting of the council after a day of talks in Washington Thursday with President Johnson and other high government officials.

The council president for January, Ambassador Agha Shahi of Pakistan, conferred until 3:30 a.m. with representatives of the 14 other council members to determine if they would agree to a meeting. Shahi deferred his decision on a time for the meeting until later today.

Diplomats said Goldberg had let it be known he would not oppose an invitation to North Korea to participate in the debate. Neither North Korea nor South Korea is a U.N. member, but South Korea maintains an observer mission here.

Goldberg, in his request for the council meeting, charged that "a grave threat to peace" had arisen from "a series of increasingly dangerous and aggressive military actions by North Korean authorities."

Goldberg told newsmen that "obviously the main purpose of this recourse to the Security Council is to see to it that the ship and crew are returned."

Another major objective, he said, is to obtain compliance with the Korean armistice agreement "so that acts of terrorism such as have been taking place will cease."

Some diplomats felt the U.S. move to the Security Council opened the way to a field day for Communist propagandists. They predicted heavy attacks on the United States over the war in Vietnam and a renewal of long-standing Communist demands for the withdrawal of all foreign troops from South Korea.

In the annual debates on the Korean question in the U.N. General Assembly, the Communists also call regularly for the dissolution of the U.N. Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea (UNCURK), but their efforts have always been defeated.

Whether North Korea should participate in the assembly debates is another annual issue. Past invitations have been extended on condition that the North Koreans recognize the United Nations' competence to deal with the matter, and the North Koreans have always rejected this condition.

Two Injured in Accident on Shover St.

Two accidents were investigated by City Police yesterday in which two persons were injured and heavy property damage resulted.

On East Shover St. a car driven by W. C. Irvin hit the wheel of a City Motor Patrol. Mrs. May Irvin was thrown into the windshield of the car. Both Mr. and Mrs. Irvin were taken to a local hospital for treatment. Their condition was not believed critical.

The Patrol driver, Earl Hampton, had stopped the vehicle just before the collision. The car was badly damaged. Officers Neal and Shirley investigated.

Later yesterday at 6th and Walnut cars driven by Norris E. Goldsby and Debbie Watson collided with minor damage resulting. Officers Johnson and McAm investigated.
